SAYS W-M SEEKS TO DISCONTINUE ALL PASSENGER TRAIN SERVICE

The Western Maryland Railway Co., which has not operated regular passenger service on its Gettysburg branch in several years, now wants to end all of its passenger service, according to the Hagerstown Daily Mail, which says that the line, which observed its 100th anniversary this year, will petition the Public Service Commission soon for permission to abandon passenger trains still in operation between Baltimore, Hagerstown, Cumberland and other points.

Facing an annual loss of nearly a half-million dollar on its passenger service, the Western Maryland revealed that it has operated passenger trains at an annual loss for over 30 years.

Had 50 Trains
In 1916 the Western Maryland was operating 40 passenger trains daily, including seven round trips between Baltimore and Hagerstown. Tens of thousands of people rode to Pen Mar on the Western Maryland on sunny summer weekends each year, and the railroad brought packed and jammed extra cars to the Hagerstown Fair each autumn.

But economic conditions have made the Western Maryland a freight-carrying road, and its freight shippers object to having to make up for the passenger train losses. The railroad now makes its steady profits by hauling coal out of the rich fields of West Virginia and southwest Pennsylvania, and picking up grain from cooperating railroads for shipment into Baltimore.

To Lose Mail Revenue
Today, half of the Western Maryland's passenger train revenue comes from United States mail. But the Postoffice Department has adopted a policy which will eventually transfer all mail to highway transportation where distances are less than 200 miles.

After the PSC gets the formal application, the PSC will probably wait 30 days to allow objections to develop, and may call a hearing if people objecting to the end of passenger trains want to state their cases.

The Western Maryland's passenger service now consists of the daily round trip between Baltimore and Cumberland, another between Baltimore and Hagerstown, and a third between Baltimore and Union Bridge.

TELLS HOW DAR HELPS RESTORE CHILDREN FROM FORLORN HOMES

"The DAR school at Tamassee, S. C., is a living monument to the dreamers who were the founders of the institution for mountain boys and girls," declared Mrs. Van Court Carwithen, Malvern, Philadelphia, past national historian of the Daughters of the American Revolution, at a meeting of the local chapter Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. W. C. Sheely, Springs Ave.

The speaker, who was introduced by Mrs. George Thrush, program chairman, in discussing the subject, "Approved Schools," gave a brief history and description of the Tamassee institution founded in 1919.

"The children who go to this school come from forlorn homes," she said. "They cross mountains and ravines to come to school. Their legs are twisted from malnutrition; their teeth are in bad condition; and they present a tragically unkempt appearance. Through the assistance of the DAR, they are restored to normal childhood and good health."

Taught Americanism
"These children grow to love the Daughters who have helped them so much," said the past regent of the Philadelphia Chapter. "They too, can trace their lineage back to the Revolution. The poor, lonely little children, who have seldom more to eat than bread and molasses, own swords used by their ancestors in the great war which gave America its independence."

"This school, one of many supported by the DAR, helps these children to grow into good Americans. Girls are taught home-making, sewing and cooking and the boys are instructed in methods of agriculture and business training. They learn to read and write. They learn how to make Americanism a part of their daily lives."

Mrs. Carwithen, a member of a committee for the DAR Approved School Survey, also described the work of the Kate Duncan Smith School, owned and supported by the DAR at Gunter, Mt. Grant, Ala.

NOVEMBER 19 OBSERVANCE TO BE INFORMAL

Plans for a November 19 observance were discussed and SUV members for the local joint Memorial Day committee were appointed by the Gettysburg Camp of the Sons of Union Veterans at its meeting Friday night in the GAR post rooms on E. Middle St.

Because of the Western Maryland Railway Company's "most excellent presentation" of the Lincoln visit here last month, no formal program was planned by the SUV for November 19. It was agreed, however, that the date should be observed by some local activity.

Jesse E. Snyder, Dr. Joseph H. Riley, G. Henry Roth and T. J. Winebrenner were appointed as a committee to arrange for the placing of a wreath in the National cemetery on November 19, and an informal program marking the anniversary of the dedication of the sacred plot will be presented in connection with the meeting of the camp November 21.

Informal Program

Present plans for the observance call for Dr. Riley to read the Lincoln's Gettysburg address, and for a son of a Civil War veteran to place a wreath on the grave of an unknown soldier. Taps will be sounded, and if possible, the SUV firing squad will fire a volley over the graves. The informal program will be held at 4 p.m. November 19. The program November 21 will be open to the public and will be held in the GAR rooms at 8 p.m.

Named as SUV representatives to the Memorial Day committee were: Commander Chester Schriever, David A. Tawney, Paul Snyder, Jesse E. Snyder, T. J. Winebrenner, Dr. Riley, A. W. Warman, G. Henry Roth, Harry Deatrick, Attorney Richard A. Brown, James I. Rose, State Senator Donald P. McPherson, Wilbur Nett and Guyon Buehler.

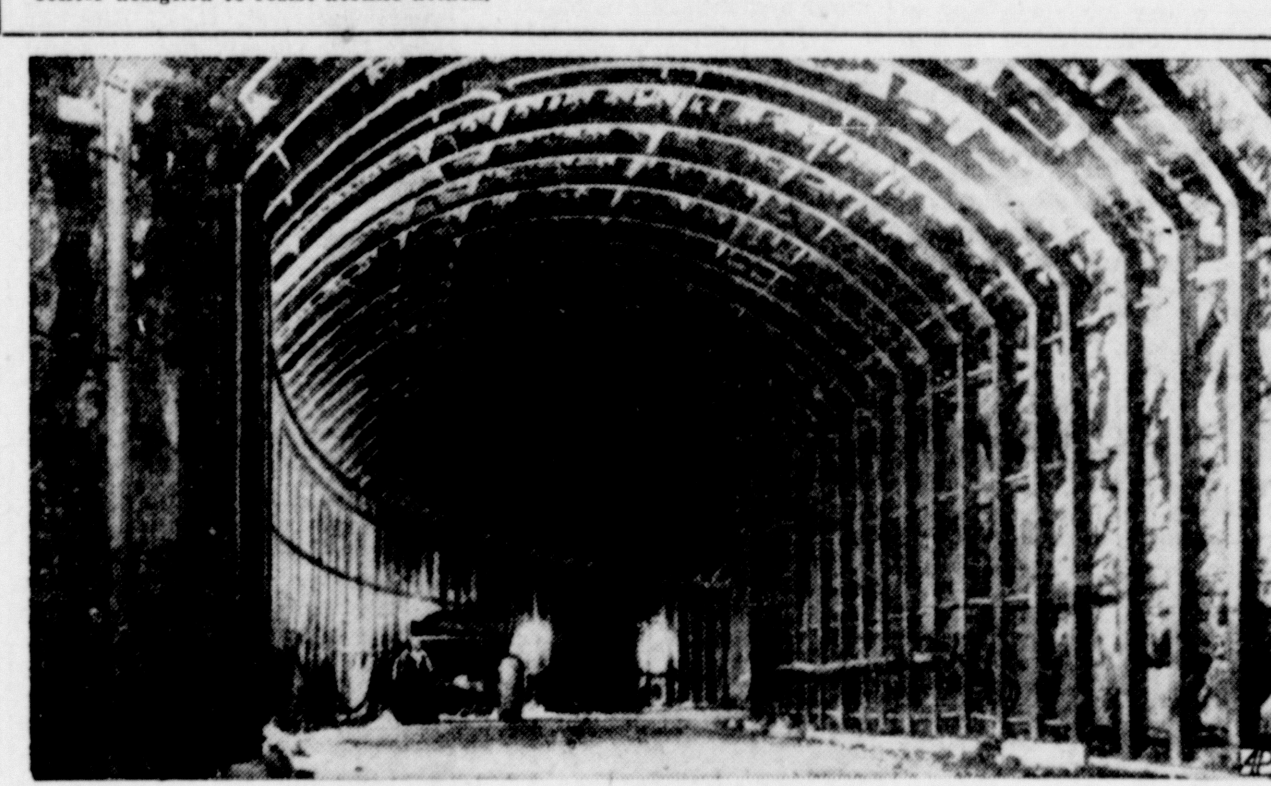

Plans for a public party to be held by the camp Thursday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, in the former Citizens' Trust building, Baltimore St., were outlined by Dr. Riley.

Receive $50 Donation

Revenue from the party will be used toward restoration of the GAR post rooms. Those wishing to donate cakes, candy, or other foods for the party are asked to bring them to the Citizens' Trust (Continued on Page 2)

Entrance To 'Underground Pentagon'

This is the entrance to a three-story "underground Pentagon" 65 miles north of Washington, to be used by the military if the nation's capital area was bombed, the Washington Post said Nov. 6 in a copyright story. The Post said it got the story and picture from a historical summary, published by the Army's Corps of Engineers, and gave these details: The project, costing $35,000,000, is located at Camp Ritchie, Md.; the three-story structure is protected by two heavy steel blast doors, and special means are provided for ventilation, emergency power and water supply, and contains a communications center designed to resist atomic attack.

Scouts' Toy Renovation Plans Turn Into Hunt For Blankets For 15 Kiddies In Two Families

Six children, ranging in ages from one to nine, sleep comfortably in a wind-swept mountain cabin these nights because an assistant scoutmaster of a local Boy Scout troop decided a good project for his troop would be the renovation of old toys for poor children at Christmas time.

And if residents of the town continue their generous donations of blankets, money and clothing, nine more children, in another family, may sleep under blankets for the first time tonight.

The whole story began about a week ago when Theodore Mitchell, assistant scoutmaster for Troop 79, started contacting the Red Cross, State Nurses and others to determine the need for toys for youngsters who otherwise would have no visit from Santa Clause at Christmas.

Learned Of Needy Families
Mitchell was informed that there are a larger number of children in the county who need toys than most people realize. So the Troop 79 official contacted other troops in the town and they agreed to join in the project.

While Mitchell was digging up facts on the need for toys, his interest in helping youngsters became known and he received several phone calls.

They told him of a family in the mountains west of here with six children, aged one to nine, in which the children had no blankets. "The kids are half starved, and half frozen. They're sleeping huddled together to keep warm, and the only thing they have to put over them are their overcoats and sweaters," Mitchell was told. "Can you help?" he was asked.

At about the same time he was informed in another call of a family with nine children, aged from about one to 11, living in a trailer near Gettysburg. The children, Mitchell was informed, are sleeping on the floor because they have no beds. They, too, are without blankets, or covering other than what worn overcoats and sweaters they may have.

Turned To WGET

Mitchell had contacted WGET while he was setting up plans for the toy collection and had been given a 15-minute program each Saturday morning from today until Christmas to urge people to turn their old toys over to the scouts for painting and renovation and distribution at Christmas time.

When the new problem—the need for blankets — was explained to Mitchell he went back to WGET. The radio station agreed to mention the need for blankets, children's clothing, etc. The YWCA agreed to become a reception center for people wishing to donate blankets and other gifts for the families.

On Thursday night members of the State police, who knew of the one family, the Red Cross, and a number of individuals who heard the appeal over the radio turned in blankets and cash. All told, Mitchell received 15 blankets and $8 in cash.

Aided Mountain Family

That wasn't enough to supply both families, Mitchell and John E. Kerrigan, assistant scoutmaster for Troop 78, who supplied his truck to deliver the articles, agreed that the family (Continued on Page 2)

County Library Given $1,000 By Musselman Foundation For Books

A gift of $1,000 to the Adams County Free Library from the Musselman Foundation was announced at the November meeting of the Board of Directors of the library Friday evening at the main library on E. High St.

The money is earmarked "for the purchase of new books" and matches a sum given by the Foundation last year which was used exclusively for the purchase of books for young people in accordance with instructions accompanying the donation.

The board accepted the new gift with particular enthusiasm because the library earlier this year exhausted its own funds for book purchases. The library book collection, which has grown steadily since the library was established seven years ago, now numbers 15,197 volumes. A total of nearly 4,000 books have had to be withdrawn from circulation over the last seven years because they had been worn out by steady use.

Set Up Book Fund

The library directors decided that the new Musselman gift shall be used to initiate a special Book Fund to be kept separate in library accounting from operating funds. Gifts for books will go into the fund and all book purchases will be made from that account.

Here And There News Collected At Random

The following editorial was published in The Scranton Times on Wednesday:

"Gettysburg Adams County, Pa., historically ranks with Bunker Hill, Valley Forge, Yorktown. In Gettysburg was fought what many say was the decisive battle of the Civil War. It was there, too, that President Abraham Lincoln made his memorable address. Adams County, which is agricultural, borders on the Maryland line. Gettysburg is about 35 miles from Harrisburg.

"In Gettysburg and round about there are a number of worth-while industries and this is reflected in the town's growth, from a population of 3,497 in 1900 to 7,046, according to the 1950 census. "GOOD TURN" FOR ANOTHER DRIVER COST MAN'S LIFE

A Savannah, Ga., truck driver switched trucks in Gettysburg Thursday, and a few minutes later was dead, crushed in an accident in York Springs.

That was the story relatives of Harry M. Bacon, 29-year-old Savannah, Ga., truck driver, and ex-marine who was fatally injured Thursday in a truck accident at York Springs, told Friday when they arrived in the north Adams community to claim the body of their late brother-in-law.

R. E. Brown and Ralph Burns, both of Savannah, who came here to arrange for removal of the body, said Bacon was returning Thursday from Canada where he had delivered a load of oranges.

Offered To Change Trucks

At Gettysburg he met Joseph Winters, driver of another Bacon Transfer Co. truck enroute from Florida to Canada with a load of oranges.

Winters told Bacon he was not feeling well and Bacon suggested that Winters take his empty truck back to Savannah, and said he would drive Winters' truck to Canada. The two men switched trucks and Bacon started back to Canada. When he reached the foot of the hill in York Springs there was another truck crossing the highway, headed toward Carlisle. The truck driven by Bacon was crushed under the trailer of the other truck.

Bacon was married and the father of two children, one aged two and the other an infant. Interment is to be made in Savannah. The body was shipped from York Springs to Savannah Friday.

QUICK OFFICIAL COUNT FINISHED AT COURT HOUSE

Official count of the ballots cast Tuesday reveals only slight changes from the unofficial tabulation with one exception—U. S. Senator Edward Martin had 99 more votes than the number he was credited with in the unofficial count.

The County Commissioners and their special clerks found easy going when they began the official count at noon Friday and completed the tabulation of the nearly 17,000 votes within three and a half hours. The time was the fastest in the history, said Commissioners Clerk Clarence C. Smith, because the number of written-in votes was the smallest in history, only about a dozen in the entire county.

While the county has only three registered Socialists, the Socialists had up to 18 votes cast for them in various offices. About 60 voters cast ballots for the smaller parties, Socialists, Prohibitionists, etc.

Voted "Against" Instead Of "For"

Forty ballots were spoiled by persons who either failed to put any marks on their ballots or used check marks instead of "x" marks, or filled in their ballots with ink, or, in one case, simply marked off those they didn't want, but failed to put an "x" after the names of those they did want. Some voted for all parties in the section marked for party voting, thus spoiling their ballots, and one simply wrote in several names for the Dietz in the blank spaces for electors.

The official count for president showed the following results: Eisenhower, 10,876; Stevenson, 5,659; Prohibition candidate, 20; Progressive candidate, 4; Socialist candidate, 5; Industrial Government candidate, one.

Military Votes Later

The count for U. S. Senator showed Martin with 10,409; Bard, 5,948; Prohibition candidate, 43; Socialist candidate, 7; Industrial Government candidate, 1; Militant Workers candidate, 3. The error in the unofficial count came in the tabulation of Biglerville. Martin was given 232 votes in that community on the unofficial count and he actually received 332 votes in that borough. He lost another vote elsewhere in the official count, however, so his actual gain over the unofficial count was 99.

The other official results were: For judge of supreme court, Arnold, 10,228; Montgomery, 6,094; State Treasurer, Heyburn, 10,047; Leader, 6,261; Peters (Socialist), 18; auditor general, Barber, 10,320; Blatt, 5,535; Hoffinger (Socialist), 16; congressman, Stauffer, 9,429; Lind, 6,880; state senator, McPherson, 10,683; Middour, 5,597; assemblyman, Worley, 9,526; Lippy, 6,861; Earl Pitzer, 4; amendments, yes, 2,186; no, 2,605.

Military ballots are not included in the official count, but will be counted separately next Friday.

ALLIES POUND RED POSITIONS

SEOUL (AP)—Allied big guns hammered thundering barrages today at Communist artillery strongholds in the Kumhwa ridges and mighty Osong Mountain on the Central Korean Front.

The savage fighting that for more than three weeks marched up and down the shell-blistered slopes of Sniper Ridge and Triangle Hill had faded to minor thrusts.

Time after time the Red artillery had cut down South Koreans short of the crest as they stormed up the slopes of Triangle Hill. Allied commanders finally called a halt this week and asked the artillery to bleed off the Red firepower.

The Reds hold Triangle and the South Koreans own most of Sniper Ridge.

Scouts' Plans

In South Mountains would probably be colder than the family nearer Gettysburg. They decided to take the 15 blankets and cash and visit the family residing high in the mountains above Caledonia, believing they needed the help the most.

They found the family at "home" in what appears to be a hunters' cabin. Cardboard had been tacked to the walls to help keep it warm. The children were huddled together in two beds, trying to get warmth from each other and the few torn overcoats and sweaters they had thrown over them. There was no food in the house. The stove was cold and there was no wood to make a fire.

The mother was distraught. The family had been told to move because of debt. The furniture was to be sold, she said. The only furnishings in the house were the two beds, a rickety table that appeared ready to fall apart, the stove, and an alarm clock. There were no chairs, Mitchell said.

With $8 the Scout leaders went to Hubert Gallagher's grocery store in Gettysburg. They routed the storekeeper out of bed, and he, according to Mitchell, "must have put $20 worth of groceries in for the $8."

The father of the family arrived. He has been unable to find work, he said. Offered a job on a farm at $135 a month plus a house, he told the Scouts, "I don't now, I don't like farming much."

Thus the search for toys led to a search for blankets and food. Neighbors of the mountain family told the scout leaders they had been providing what food they could for the children. Money in the family seldom turned into food for the children, neighbors said.

Wants To Get Back To Toys
With the needs of the one family met, Mitchell decided to try to get enough blankets for the other children. A request over WGET Friday night netted two quilts and a blanket, not enough to cover the children, but a start.

Mitchell is hoping that today with blankets to spare will bring them to the YWCA before 9 o'clock tonight that he might be able to turn them over to the 11 youngsters tonight.

He also pointed out that in both families there is a need for warmer clothing for the youngsters. Sizes are not too important because between the 15 children there are 15 different sizes.

Mitchell hopes to end the blanket hunt today, because he wants to get started on the project he had originally in mind — collecting toys to be renovated and given to poor children at Christmas.

of its founding with a 106-page edition.

"That Gettysburg, despite its proximity to Harrisburg, York and Baltimore, has been able to support a publication like The Times for half a century is an indication that the people like the paper and buy it. Merchants patronize it. In Lackawanna County there are several towns of a size or considerably larger than Gettysburg, which have neither daily nor weekly newspapers.

"The golden anniversary edition of The Gettysburg Times is an informative number. It carries many special articles and a fine volume of advertising and proclaims it is 'the largest newspaper ever published in the Gettysburg area.' The Gettysburg Times came into being in changefover from the original 'The Progress. From a struggling four-page paper The Times has moved forward, as it well says, 'always mindful of its objective, an unbiased, impartial and community newspaper.'

The Times has won its place in the Gettysburg community by reason of its loyal support of every movement for the betterment of the town and Adams County. The golden anniversary edition is one of which the paper and all concerned with its promotion, content and makeup can feel pardonably proud."

LANE STUDIO IS FEATURED

The fall number of "Studio Light," trade publication of The Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester, N. Y., features in its lead article the story of the Lanes, Walter and Janice, and their studio at 34 York St., under the title, "Gettysburg Address."

Published with the story are several photos of the "then and now" type, showing the basement of the Lane Studio when it was "a maze of cable, pipe, cobwebs and mortar dust," and its present light, attractive and spacious workrooms.

Among other pictures accompanying the article is a portrait of two Gettysburg youngsters made by the studio, and four of the Lane windows. Easter, Mother's Day and Christmas, 1951, and the Valentine window of 1952.

Walter, the article notes, had behind him seven years as a "Life" magazine photographer and four as a Navy combat photographer before he opened his studio here in 1946.

Cites Advertising
"We run your newspaper ads in 'The Gettysburg Times,'" the article quotes Mr. Lane as saying, "and we think its worth it, otherwise we wouldn't use this medium. And we use your radio spots on the local station."

"Before we set up in Gettysburg I had never joined a club or service group in my life, and now . . . I belong to the Rotary Club, the Elks, the Moose and I take a big interest in the Gettysburg Volunteer Fire Department. I get a big bang out of each of these activities."

The article says residents of the Gettysburg area "are especially partial to hand-tinted photographs, when the work is done by Mrs. Lane."

GHS Loses Final Game To Mechanicsburg 6-0

Mechanicsburg High School upset the Gettysburg High Warriors 6-0, in a hard-fought, well-played South Penn game at Mechanicsburg before 4,000 fans Friday evening.

The Wildcats made the only score of the game in 9:13 of the second quarter following Wright's interception of Skip Fisel's pass on the Gettysburg 44. Aided by a 15-yard penalty against the Warriors, Mechanicsburg required ten plays to score with Wood crossing from the one.

With better fortune, Gettysburg could have won the game despite the loss of two regulars who quit school this week and the injured players who refused to give up. Early in the second quarter Fisel tossed to Skinner who was beyond the last defender. The pass, partially deflected by a heroic jump by the Wildcat safety man, fell through Skinner's arms. On another occasion Fisel hurled to Bob Miller, who was beyond the final defender, but the pass fell several yards short. Miller tried in vain to snare it.

Ronnie Miller Shines

Ron Miller, Warrior senior, put on the greatest offensive show of his scholastic career by gaining 94 yards in 15 carries. Late in the initial quarter, Ronnie took a wide pitchout around right end and went 48 yards before the safety man tackled him. With a mite better luck on that one, the Warriors would have scored too.

The home team made its first serious threat in the first period after getting the ball on its own 31. But the Warriors held for downs on their own 11 and started a drive of their own. After Bob Miller gained five, Ronnie made his spectacular run. An offside cost the Warriors five, but Fisel passed to Skinner for 11, as the quarter ended.

Ronnie added six more, and then Fisel passed to Skinner but Big Jim dropped it on the Mechanicsburg 10 with nobody between him and the goal line. After several plays failed to gain, Fisel booted out of bounds on the Interception.

Following a Mechanicsburg punt, Fisel's pass was intercepted by Wood and the Wildcats staged their scoring drive.

Gettysburg drove deep into Mechanicsburg territory late in the second quarter. After Ron Miller's pass was incomplete, Bob Miller gained five. The Wildcats were penalized five for offside. A Fisel-Skinner pass followed by a lateral to Ron Miller gained 20 yards to the home team's 34. Ron Miller gained six, but three incomplete passes stopped the drive.

The first time they got the ball in the second half, the Warriors went to the Mechanicsburg 42, aided greatly by Fisel's 17-yard run from punt formation on fourth down and seven. The second and last time in the second half the Warriors had the ball they drove to the Mechanicsburg 40 before penalties shoved them back.

In the final half, Mechanicsburg had the ball on three occasions, Gettysburg but twice.

All Play Well

Gettysburg's seniors playing their final game acquitted themselves well, but too much praise can not be heaped on the shoulders of Ronnie Miller. He drove hard and shook off tacklers time after time.

Offensively, the Warriors looked better than at any time since playing Carlisle. The running attack netted 149 yards, and the four complete passes accounted for 49 more. Fisel, on one occasion, picked up 13 yards by running with the ball instead of passing.

It was the final game of Seniors Bill Knox, Fisel, Ron Miller, Gussie Dayhoff, Gerald Peters, Skinner, Bob Miller, John Carter and Dick Ray.

L-TOWN LOSES TO BUBBLERS IN FINAL 32-0

Littlestown High's football squad put up a good game but was no match for the undefeated Boiling Springs outfit as the Bubblers scored a 32-0 victory Friday night at Littlestown before about 1,500 fans.

The Bubblers scored a pair of touchdowns in the opening period. After receiving the initial kickoff, Boiling Springs marched straight for a score with Bob Lebo sprinting around right end for 40 yards and his 16th touchdown of the season. Kepner's placement for the point was low.

Clay Evans' Thunderbolts moved deep into Bubblers territory following the score only to lose the ball on a fumble on the 24 from which spot the Bubblers moved to their second tally. Herr raced around right end from the 15 to tally. Kepner added the point on a placement.

In the second quarter Boiling Springs marched 55 yards for its third TD. Kepner racing over from the 20 on a reverse. Again Kepner converted.

The Bolts put up a determined battle in the third quarter and neither team could muster enough punch for a tally.

Bolt Pass Intercepts
Early in the final frame Dasher intercepted a Bolt pass to give the invaders the ball on the Littlestown 30. A short time later Rowles crashed over from the 4. The Littlestown line blocked Kepner's kick for the point.

A fumble by Littlestown which gave the Bubblers the ball on the Bolts' 17 resulted in the final score with Delp plunging across from the 22. A pass for the point was incomplete.

In losing Littlestown closed its season with a 3-6 record.

The victory marked the eighth of the season against a tie for Bud Ecker's charges and also was the 26th game without a defeat for his outfit. Next Thursday Boiling Springs will be host to Millersburg.

HORNETS BACK IN WINNING WAYS

By The Associated Press
The Pittsburgh Hornets, who last season finished first in the Western Division of the American Hockey League and then went on to capture the Calder Cup Playoffs, are back in winning stride once again.

Pittsburgh polished off last year's Eastern Division champs, the Hershey Bears, 5-3, last night in the only game played. The victory enabled the Hornets to climb from sixth place into a fourth place tie with the idle Cleveland Barons.

Off to a dismal start, Pittsburgh dropped its first four games. Then, after splitting the next two games, the Hornets rebounded for three victories in their last four starts.

Defenseman Frank Sullivan tallied two goals for the Hornets, who entered the third period, leading, 4-1. Hershey tallied twice to narrow the deficit to 4-3, before Ray Timgren fired home the clinching marker for Pittsburgh with 40 seconds remaining.

The triumph was the Hornets' first over Hershey in three starts.

RAY ROBINSON NOW NIGHT CLUB DANCER, EMCEE

NEW YORK (P)—Sugar Ray Robinson is now a night club dancer and master of ceremonies. Whether he goes on being middleweight boxing champion of the world is something he will decide with his manager this month.

Wearing white silk underwear and a weary, happy smile in his dressing room, he accepted congratulations eagerly after his first show last night and asked everyone, "Did you really like it?"

It seemed obvious today that he wants to quit fighting.

Louis Was There
"But I'll have to talk it over with George Gaimford," he said. George is his manager.

Much depends on the critics, the crowds and the pay. The first night's reception was extremely warm.

Robinson demonstrated that he is unquestionably the world's best tap dancer among championship fighters. He's even a good dancer in his own right. Present among others to cheer him on were former Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott and Jackie Robinson of baseball fame.

PRO COURT LOOP MAY BE REVIVED
NEW YORK (P)—The American Professional Basketball League which disbanded several weeks ago in a dispute over use of former college players involved in the point-fixing scandals, may reorganize.

Representatives of six teams—Wilkes-Barre and Scranton in Pennsylvania, Saratoga and Elmira in New York, and Manchester and Bridgeport in Connecticut—conferred in the office of former league president John J. O'Brien last night to discuss reviving the circuit.

The 24-year-old league disbanded because two teams wanted to use players implicated in the point-fixing. Jersey City had planned to use Alex Groza and Ralph Beard, ex-Kentucky stars, and Sherman White, formerly of LIU, while Elmira hoped to use Bill Sprivy, former Kentucky center now under indictment.

Before a vote could be taken on the status of the fix players, the two teams withdrew from the league. The five other

Dr. John Knox Joins Service:
Gettysburg's sixth physician to join

States in World War II is Dr. John

come a first lieutenant in the Air

Doctor Knox has practiced in Gettysburg for three years.

General Martin Elected Governor:

Falling in step with the state and nation-wide victory swing by the GOP, Adams County Republicans turned out in much larger numbers than had been expected and handed General Edward Martin a majority of 2,064 over Auditor General F. C. Clair Ross for governor on Tuesday's voting.

At the same time Adams Countians gave majorities of close to 2,000 to all of the Republican state candidates and voted Chester H.
Gross, Republican, a 1,634 lead over Congressman Harry L. Haines that enabled Gross to top Haines by 167 ballots in the York-Adams-Franklin district.

The GOP in this county won possession of this district's only seat in the lower house at Harrisburg by defeating Assemblyman George L.
Baughner, Democrat, who sought a second term and electing Francis Worley, young Latimore township Republican.

Records at the court house showed that 10,229 ballots were cast in Adams County Tuesday. The vote represents 57 percent of the 18,111 registered electors in the county, is larger than predicted, but fell far below the record 86 per cent cast here in the last gubernatorial election in 1938.

Substitute Director: Miss Eva Jane
Schwartz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Howard S. Schwartz, Littlestown, left Tuesday to assume her duties as substitute director of home economics in the Everett public schools.

Yynn-Sites: Miss Loraine Sites, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mackley Sites, of Fairfield, and Master Sergeant Richard Wynn, of New York City, were united in marriage at Alexandria, Virginia, October 26, at 6 p.m.

The wedding took place in the Reformed Church parsonage and was performed by the Rev. Mr. Weiss.
Mrs. Wynn has taught school in Cumberland and Liberty townships.

Rev. Beard to Enter Service: The Rev. Paul B. Beard, pastor since 1938 of the Mt. Joy Lutheran Church which includes the Harney Lutheran Church, has submitted his resignation as pastor to become effective on Sunday, November 15. The resignation was announced at a congregational meeting which followed the morning worship service at Mt.
Joy Church on Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Beard told The Gettysburg Times Friday that he expects to enter the armed forces of the United States.

The Mandatory Society of the Mt. Joy Lutheran Church held a farewell party Wednesday evening at the parish hall in conjunction with the regular meeting for Mrs.
Beard, who will leave soon to reside in Baltimore.

Miss Eleanor Dill Weds in New York: The marriage of Miss Eleanor Thompson Dill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Dill, Biglerville, to Sidney N. Repplier, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Sidney Repplier, Mt. Airy, was solemnized Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Little Church Around the Corner, New York City, in the presence of the members of the immediate families. The Rev.
Fr. Weatherly performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, had as her only attendant her sister, Mrs. Joseph E.
Gilmour, Drexel Hill, Francis Sprue
U.S.N., served as best man.

Mrs. Repplier is now with the Actors Workshop in New York. Mr.
Repplier is now stationed with the Coast Guard at Cape May, N. J.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE WHOLESOMENESS OF CHANGE

People who refuse to change their plan of life, when evidence appears that it is for the best, remain static human beings, their imagination and initiative under a cloud. In nature there is continual change. That old statement that "a new broom sweeps clean" is true as applied to our daily lives. We can not grow in usefulness by sticking to old, or worn out, ideas.

We must continually keep changing, so long as it is for the better.
Individuals and nations that refuse to change for the better, gradually lose their power and their inspiration as leaders. Forward looking people welcome change. It is the constant change to better and safer automobiles that keeps the industry at top sales. Contrast those cars of ten years ago with those of today.

"Upward change, from the simple to the more complex, progress," once wrote William Allen White. It is the restless unconquerable spirit of men and women that has given freedom and enterprise their priceless worth.
Stand still and we are by-passed. We remain only as spectators. Intelligent change is always an act of progress. Old ideas die out like material things that are no more useful. Col. W. R. Nelson, great founder of the Kansas City Star, once told me that "no matter how good an idea anyone has there is always a better one."

Many of the radical ideas of a decade or so ago now are looked upon as conservative! Many a genius has buried himself, refusing to take the risk of a change that might lift him to eminence. The employee who thinks he is getting nowhere should "take the bull by the horns," as the saying goes, and make a change, even though temporarily he may take a loss. There is a wholesomeness to change that is invigorating.

Moving to a new home, or to a new city, has often worked a miracle!
Changes stimulate initiative, and increase ambition. They help to wipe out personal fears and increase self-reliance. No one gets so big but a change of life, or viewpoint, might make him bigger!

COMMITTEES IN HEAVEN

I wonder if in Heaven they have clubs and lodges, too.
With committees and their chairmen planning tasks for all to do.

Do they weekly meet at luncheons and seek speakers for the day?

If they do, should I arrive there I shall think I've gone astray.

I wonder if in Heaven press photographers await To get shots of folks important as they're passing through the gate?

If by flashing bulbs I'm greeted when I wake on Judgment Day.

Though I'd hoped to get to Heaven, I shall think I lost the way.

If the good Lord should allow me Heaven's realms at last to reach And I'm told: "We've planned a banquet and we want you for a speech."

I shall think it's purgatory, but I'll answer with a smile:
"I will do it for you later, but I'd like to rest a while."

The U. S. Army today identified a fallen into Russian custody as Mas-

The first announcement yesterclosed the correct name.

The Army announcement said La Goy was on an authorized mission
Wednesday when, it was believed, he lost his way and crossed into Communist territory.

DUFF HAS RULED HIMSELF OUT OF CABINET SCENE

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—U. S. Sen.
James A. Duff (R-Pa.) as of today has ruled himself out of consideration for a post in president-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower's cabinet.

He was told newsmen several times in the last five months that he was not interested in any cabinet post which might become available in a Republican administration in Washington.

His close friends believe the fiery 69-year-old Duff, one of the earliest leaders in the drive to nominate Eisenhower on the Republican ticket, is motivated by these things:

Wants To Serve In Senate

First, he wants to serve in the Senate while Eisenhower's legislative program is being formulated and then help to get it passed, if possible.

Second, he wants to help the new president in patronage matters as far as Pennsylvania is concerned and, although the junior senator, Duff is expected to have the say-so in deciding who in the Keystone State will receive what federal jobs.

Third, Duff is reported planning a return to Pennsylvania in 1954 to seek the governor's seat he held from 1946 to 1950 when he was elected to the Senate.

Those close to Duff say he feels he can be more influential in the Senate than in a cabinet post during the formative months of the Eisenhower administration. The "big red" is expected to be one of the Senate leaders in helping pass any legislation advocated by Eisenhower.

Fear Danger Of Ike's Korean Trip

TOPEKA, Kas. (AP)—Alf M. Landon and Harry Woodring, both former governors of Kansas, think president-elect Dwight Eisenhower should cancel his proposed trip to Korea.

Woodring, secretary of war in the early part of the Franklin D.
Roosevelt administration and former Democratic governor, suggested Eisenhower send top-ranking representatives in his stead.

Landon, Republican presidential nominee in 1936, said he believes Eisenhower has to keep his campaign promise to go to Korea, but he added:

"It is too great a risk for the welfare of the American people for what can be gained by making the trip."

Landon suggested that members of Congress, as representatives of the people, ask the president-elect not to make the trip.

Woodring and Landon made their comments in interviews.

NOTES ABOUT INDOOR FERNS

Ferns became botanical "step-children" when African violets moved into first place among popular house plants within the last decade. Formerly they were second only to geraniums among indoor favorites. Now they rank far in the rear. Among reasons for this decline are found errors which even experienced growers repeated year after year.

Rarely are native ferns successfully moved to indoor roles. In many years of answering questions from readers to help them with their house plant problems, the editor has never learned of one instance where a grower developed an attractive fern from wild specimens obtained in the woods. Always it is wise to buy plants from a local florist or nursery for a start.

Ferns found in forests serve their most useful purpose in demonstrating sound principles of care. First, the finest specimens are usually seen on the north sides of hills in dense forests or in shady coves where the sunshine is finely filtered through heavy foliage. This fact suggests that north windows are the best indoor locations for ferns.

The most vigorous native plants grow in light, well drained, fertile woods loam that is acid or at least neutral in its reaction. Heavy clays, lime or wood ashes, poor drainage and over-watering are among factors which do not harmonize with ideal conditions found in the habitats of wild ferns.

Perhaps the most noticeable phase in the environment of native ferns is the air condition. Outstanding are the moist, humid surroundings resulting from forest shade, soil that holds water without sogging, and a total absence of dry air. High temperatures are perhaps the most injurious factor among causes of house fern failure.

Many successful growers long ago discovered that fumes from gas stoves seriously weakened fern foliage. From questionnaires mailed to hundreds of growers it was established that few ferns failed in temperatures below 72 degrees and few succeeded above this level. But the rate of failure where gas was used for heating or cooking was considerably higher.

There has been a partially erroneous theory that ferns can be forced into beautiful growth by feeding them with highly advertised plant foods. Soils, of course, must meet conditions which ferns demand but they are not by any means No. 1 among the causes of failure or success. A regular florist or greenhouse potting soil is advised or a mixture of fence row loam scraped from the under side of a heavy old sod, plus leafmold or woods soil to render the mixture slightly acid or at least neutral.

Necessary drainage must be insured, preferably by placing bits of broken pottery, cinders or small stones in the bottom of the pot and covering them with peatmoss. Many years ago the editor learned from a wise indoor plant growing authority a valuable hint on watering ferns. It was this: "Remember, Nature does not send a light shower of rain every morning." Translated into everyday practice, this means that ferns should be watered whenever the soil trends toward dryness but they should not be "sprinkled" every day.

The same authority warned: "And God doesn't turn the hill around every morning so plants must face in a changed direction." This, too, suggests that it is not advisable to turn and brush and fuss and fiddle with indoor ferns. Coddling is not necessary.

Interested readers may obtain a free copy of our fern growing instructions on request to the editor. Please enclose a stamped envelope.

OUR CHANGING FRUIT HABITS

In the early years of the present century Americans consumed approximately 100 pounds of fruit per capita, computed on a fresh fruit basis. Today consumption is above 250 pounds and still steadily rising. In the aggregate this is a favorable trend in that it promises a higher national health standard and at the same time offers a more varied scheme of farm cropping. But first impressions here are misleading. The picture is not encouraging for the northern farmer in its present perspective.

Fifty years ago we were consuming less than 20 pounds of citrus fruits per capita each year today the annual rate is above 80 pounds. Thus, because the overall increase in consumption of all fruits has been only 0 pounds per capita and the consumption of citrus fruits has risen more than 60 pounds, there must have been a decline elsewhere. In what fruits did this decrease show up?

Apple consumption has dropped roughly about 52 pounds since the first decade of this century. Strawberry consumption has declined slightly more than one-half in the last 50 years. Likewise the consumption of bramble and other small fruits reveals a gradual but steady decrease, with cherry and pear consumption rising slightly and peaches barely remaining stationary. Fruit imports have increased per capita about 50 percent — from 20 to 30 pounds. In other words, domestic production of fruit, despite the phenomenal rise in citrus fruit growing, has failed to keep pace with our population growth and our demands for more fruit on our dining tables.

In the light of immediate planning, what do these statistics mean to northern farmers?

First, it is indisputably plain that citrus growers, largely through cooperative advertising and selling efforts, have absorbed a large segment of the consumer market that formerly belonged to the northern apple grower. This could have been prevented and can be corrected. Apples hold naturally greater advertising appeal than any other domestic fruit. If the healthful properties and all-round goodness of northern-grown apples had been kept before the consuming public since 1910 like the citrus grower has publicized his product, Americans would be eating 125 to 150 pounds of apples per capita each year instead of their paltry 42 pounds recorded last year. And let us not continue the foolish, childish prattle that this is a problem for the "government to solve." Here is a battle front where only apple growers and apple consumers may fight as allies. It is a distribution enigma and there should be no college theorists allowed in the fray to smoke-screen its issues.

Consumption of frozen berries (strawberries, blueberries, raspberries, blackberries, dewberries and loganberries) has increased 400 per cent in the last four years. Here is a barometer which all farmers and gardeners should consider. It promises new sources of sustained revenue for growers who bring plantations of these fruits into production during the next two or three years. From present indications here is rich cream on local marketing opportunities.

And at the same time it seems reasonable to predict that there is justification for gradually increasing apple, peach, cherry and plum planting throughout the East. And with pear production now preponderantly centered on the Pacific Coast, it appears that eastern farmers should find profitable markets with their advantages over high haulage costs across the nation.

The biggest crowd of the 1952 World Series attended the fourth game. The attendance was 71,767.

IKE HAS 660 KEY POSTS TO FILL BY JAN. 20

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Since he moves into the White House Jan. 20, Gen. Eisenhower has a little over 2½ months to get ready for the presidency.

One of his first and most ticklish problems is naming the right men for key government jobs, such as the secretary of state and the secretary of defense, who will be members of his Cabinet.

He'll have to rely on them for guidance in the years ahead. And he knows, without reading any more history than that of the past four years, how much damage a poor selection can do his administration.

Because they've won control of both Congress and the executive branch of the government, the Republicans will be able to name people to a lot of jobs.

There are two main kinds of jobs which the President can fill by appointment.

660 Key Posts
In one kind he can appoint a man for a certain number of years, fixed by law in the other kind the jobs are "at the pleasure of the President," meaning the President can give them and take them away when he pleases.

A White House researcher said there are about 660 jobs "at the pleasure of the President." They include the very top government posts and can be broken down into about six categories:

1. Heads and assistant heads of departments. In this group are the Cabinet members—the secretaries of all the departments—and their undersecretaries and assistant secretaries.

2. Others in the departments. They include the general counsels of each department (each department has a staff of lawyers and the general counsel is top lawyer).

No. 2 also includes ambassadors and ministers, and such jobs as director of geological survey, commissioner of reclamation, commissioner of Indian affairs, director of the Bureau of Mines.

Independent Agencies

3. Heads and assistant heads of independent agencies. A couple of good examples here are the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Civil Service Commission.

4. Others in independent agencies. For example, the commissioner of education (in the Federal Security Administration) and the director of locomotive inspection (in the Interstate Commerce Commission).

5. Miscellaneous boards and commissions. Truman created such special groups as the Missouri River Basin Survey Commission, the Presidential Commission on the Health Needs of the Nation, and the President's Committee on Equality of Treatment in the Armed Services.

International Groups

6. International organizations. These involve men appointed at the pleasure of the president to be American representatives in such groups as the United Nations, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the International Boundary Commission between the United States and Canada.

But there are a number of other very important government agencies where the top men were appointed by President Truman or even President Roosevelt for a fixed number of years and can't be replaced by Eisenhower until their term expires.

For example, the Federal Reserve Board with seven members. The

BIG 3 FOREIGN MINISTERS TO CONFER TODAY

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Foreign ministers of the Big Three Western powers scheduled meetings in New York today and tomorrow for top-level policy discussions on Korea and other major problems facing the United Nations.

Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is due to arrive here today to take part in the Korean debate which already is off to a running start in the General Assembly and its Political Committee.

The other two ministers—France's Robert Schuman and U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, already are on hand. Schuman arrived in New York yesterday and Acheson returned to the U. N. for his first appearance since he went to his Maryland home to vote in the U. S. presidential election.

Face "Lame Duck"

Eden and Schuman purposely had delayed their arrivals at the U. N. until after the American voting. Now they are confronted with the fact that Acheson—with whom they have discussed major issues many times before—is in a "lame duck" position as a result of the Republican victory.

Debate on the deadlocked Korean armistice question was suspended over the week end. But term of each runs for 14 years. There are others, like the National Labor Relations Board (5 members), the Federal Communications Commission (5 members), the Security Commission (11 members) and the Interstate Commerce Board with seven members. The Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky returns Monday morning as the initial speaker in the Political Committee. It will be the Russian's first appearance in the U. N. conference room since he blasted at Acheson and presented Moscow's terms for ending the Korean War nearly two weeks ago.

Schuman To Talk
Schuman is scheduled to speak Monday afternoon in a General Assembly plenary session. France's position on Korea already has been outlined in committee debate, but Schuman goes before the full assembly to map out detailed French policy on all issues confronting the U. N.

Eden hopes to present Britain's policies to the full assembly Tuesday. During his visit to the U. S., the British foreign secretary also may seek a meeting with President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower to discuss joint British-American problems with the head of the incoming administration.

Bob Williams, former Notre Dame ace and now with the Chicago Bears in the NFL, completed 190 passes for 2,519 yards and 26 touchdowns in three seasons for the Irish.

Danger Months Ahead

It may surprise you—so many of us drive so much more in the Spring and Summer—but the worst months for traffic fatalities are before us. November and December are the most dangerous in the calendar.

There are reasons. More hours of darkness, wet weather, fog, streets slippery with fallen leaves—these and other conditions are factors.

But there are precautions you can take to get around these added hazards. When you drive, be extra alert. Make allowance for poorer visibility, drive well within posted speed limits. When you are walking, follow all the rules essential to pedestrian safety.

We can't eliminate these dangerous months—they are there to be faced. But we can drive and walk in such a manner that we shall live to see another Spring.

This message in the interest of highway safety is one of a series prepared and disseminated by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue.

GEN. GRUENTHER WILL BE GIVEN A BIGGER JOB

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Powers in Europe (P)—American officers at this headquarters were guessing today that President-elect Eisenhower will give Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther a bigger job that he has—chief of staff to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander in Europe.

Virtually the only one here not speculating on it is Gen. Gruenther himself. He is saying nothing. His subordinates, however, think he is slated for one of three top jobs—chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, now held by Gen. Omar N. Bradley; U. S. Army chief of staff, held by Gen. J. Lawton Collins; or Gen. Mark Clark's job in Japan.

Was Ike's Aide
Eisenhower picked Gruenther, a top-ranking administrator, as his chief of staff to help him set up SHAPE nearly two years ago.

When the President-elect resigned to campaign for the Republican nomination six months ago, he was reported to have recommended Gruenther as his successor. Gruenther, however, was passed over in favor of Gen. Ridgway, purportedly because he had never held combat command. He stayed on a Ridgway's chief of staff.

There has been no evidence of discussion between Gruenther and Ridgway. On the contrary, he is known to have told friends that, taking age and physical energy into consideration, he considers Ridgway, 57, one of America's outstanding generals. Gruenther is 53.

DON'T BLAME HER

DALLAS, Tex. (P)—This is the story a young Dallas woman told police after tossing a pan of scalding water on her husband. "Several times lately he's made me stop my housework and stand on my head right in the middle of the floor. I got to thinking about it this morning and got so mad I threw the first thing I could find right at him."

The hubby was hospitalized but declined to press charges.

GOP GAINS 2 IN STATE SENATE

HARRISBURG (P)—Republicans now have two more seats in the State Senate than they did during the 1951 session.

The new count is: 32 Republicans, 18 Democrats. G. Harold Watkins, Senate secretary, said Tuesday's election returns saw two Democrat incumbents and one Republican lost in their bid for re-election to make a net gain of one seat to the GOP.

The Republicans gained another seat in the spring primary election when Francis P. McCusker, Philadelphia Republican, won a special election for a two-year term.

The election was called to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former Sen. John P. Byrne, Democrat, to become a Philadelphia city councilman.

Democrat Tries To Burn Home Of GOP

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (P)—A 45-year-old San Antonio Democrat resented the winning smirks of his Republican landlady Thursday and was jailed after he had tried to burn her house.

He barricaded firemen from his small garage apartment in the rear of the landlady's house and fought with them as they broke down the door. He was booked in city jail on a charge of arson. "I just didn't like her attitude," he told Patrolman C. G. Ramirez as they rode to the city jail.

Weather Forecast

Extended forecast for the period Saturday, Nov. 8, through Wednesday, Nov. 12.

Eastern Pennsylvania, Eastern New York and mid-Atlantic states: Temperatures will average 2-5 degrees below normal; warmer Saturday afternoon and Sunday; cooler Monday and Tuesday, warmer again Wednesday; rain south portion about Monday and north portion Sunday or Monday, totaling 1-5 to 1-3 of an inch.

Western Pennsylvania, Western New York, Ohio and West Virginia: Temperatures will average 3-5 degrees below normal; warmer Saturday afternoon; cooler Sunday night and Monday; warmer Wednesday; showers about Sunday totaling 1-5 of an inch or less.

QUAKE HITS WEST COAST
BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (P)—A rolling earthquake that shook buildings hit early Friday in this area of Southern California's San Joaquin Valley.

There were no reports of damage or injuries, although the tremor was felt in Shafter, 20 miles to the north, and at Wheeler Ridge, 30 miles to the south.

Tackle Lou Creekmur of the Detroit Lions in the NFL weighed 16 pounds when he was born.

FDR'S ANNA TO WED 3RD TIME

NEW YORK (P)—Anna Roosevelt Boettiger, only daughter of the late President Roosevelt, will be married next Tuesday to Dr. James A. Halsted of Los Angeles.

The marriage will take place at Halsted's ranch in the Malibu Mountains outside Los Angeles, her mother, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, announced. She and other members of the Roosevelt family will attend the ceremony.

It will be the third marriage for Mrs. Boettiger, 46. She married Curtis B. Dall in 1926 and was divorced from him in 1934. In 1935 she married John Boettiger, a newspaper man, and was divorced from him in 1949. Boettiger committed suicide in 1950 by leaping out a New York hotel window.

Mrs. Boettiger has three children, Eleanor, Curtis and John, and three grandchildren. Dr. Halsted, who was divorced from his wife last year, has four children.

Dr. Halsted is a member of the medical service at the Veterans' Administration center in Los Angeles and is assistant clinical professor of medicine at the University of California Medical School at Los Angeles. A graduate of Harvard College in 1926 and Harvard Medical School in 1930, he served 33 months in North Africa and Italy during World War II as a major.

After the wedding the couple will live at Dr. Halsted's home on the Veterans' Administration grounds in Los Angeles. With them will be Dr. Halsted's two sons, Thomas and Charles, and Mrs. Boettiger's youngest son, John.

Jap Prince To Be Proclaimed Heir

TOKYO (P)—Crown Prince Akihito will be proclaimed heir to Japan's throne Monday in a picturesque medieval pageant which dates back to the Eight Century. The ceremony also marks the official coming of age of the crown prince, who was 18 last Dec. 23. The ceremony was delayed mainly because the imperial family had been in mourning for the Empress Dowager Sadako, Akihito's grandmother, who died May 17, 1951.

It is Japan's first court occasion since Emperor Hirohito's coronation in 1928.

REFUSE TV REQUEST

ASHINGTON (P)—A request for permission to set up a temporary television station on Channel 8 at Lancaster, Pa., has been rejected by the Federal Communications Commission.

The agency Thursday turned down the plea by Peoples Broadcasting Co. of Lancaster. Peoples is applying for a new station on Channel 8, while station WGAL-TV, operating at Lancaster on Channel 4, has been directed by the FCC to move to Channel 8 in line with the final channel allocation table.

The University of Mississippi's 1952 football roster includes 11 freshmen.

Danger From Behind

Tests made by my friend, Andrew White, who heads one of the most interesting automotive testing and research laboratories have brought out the fact that the shelf just behind the rear seat is something which the car manufacturers ought to eliminate immediately. Here it is that people deposit all sorts of things which can be a real hazard to car occupants in what is known as a panic stop. All these things fly forward.

In his test of a crash with a 1952 model White deposited on the shelf a can of oil, a pair of shoes, a piece of chalk, a box with some powder, and a heavy frying pan. The oil can shot straight forward and would have cracked the skull of the driver. The shoes tossed into the floor behind the front seat. The chalk hit the windshield header, bounced back to the rear, and then bounced all the way forward again. The box of powder hit the windshield header and then broke up so that its contents sprinkled all over the front compartment. You'd never guess that the frying pan stayed just where they left it.

Its handle had caught in the back of the rear seat!

Pointer On Starting
If the engine falters and stalls when you have started it on a cold day it is natural to suspect that the automatic choke isn't up to par, but don't be surprised if the real culprit is the fuel pump. An engine is using maximum fuel when it is being forced to pull the car in a lower gear while still cold and during operation of the choke, and it is under such conditions that a weak fuel pump often will fail to supply the necessary quantity of gasoline.

Perhaps more motorists would check the generator regulator and avoid overcharging of the battery if they realized that putting too much charging into cells causes a variety of damage. Separators may be perforated, positive plates may be buckled, water may evaporate so quickly as to permit the high temperatures which damage the material and if the overcharging is excessive some of the battery electrolyte may be forced from the cells. This not only corrodes battery connectors but any metal parts of the engine which may be nearby.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:
"One of the popular mistakes these days is failure to drain off all the water when preparing to put in anti-freeze. The owner doesn't realize that there are drains at the rear sides of the tipped back motor block and that unless these are opened quite a bit of water will remain in the system. He then starts filling the system, starting with plain water, and ending with the prescribed quantity of anti-freeze. Suddenly the system is full and he has to drain off, and waste, anti-freeze in order to get in the remainder. "It is a good idea to run the engine for a minute or so with the drains open so as to get out all the water in the car heater. And when the drains are closed start with a mixture of anti-freeze and water, making sure you have the right proportions and the right quantity. Measure with a garden watering can which holds two gallons. And know what the capacity of the cooling system really is."

Getting Off The Lift
If your car has been up on a hydraulic lift and you are about to drive off with it, be sure that you wait until the arms of the lift have settled down fully. In one shop the other day an impatient owner started to drive off before the lift had fully settled. He nearly tore off the crankcase. Next time your car is on a lift, and has been lowered to the floor, lean over and observe the situation under the car. You will find that even after lifting is ended the lift arms are not yet out of the way. Wait until the operator gives the word to go.

There have been so many books on the subject of old cars I confess that I was agreeably surprised when I read the newest, "The Road is Yours," written by Reginald M. Cleveland and S. T. Williamson. This is a story of the automobile and the men behind it, told in a spirited way that makes you feel you were part of this great drama of personalities and engineering adventure. The authors take us right behind the scene, even to board room discussions of what to do when the great depression of the 30s threatened to wreck some of the cars which today are famous.

My files have been filled with data on queer old cars and personalities of yesteryear, but the ones in this new Greystone Press book are priceless. Cleveland is a director of Automobile Old Timers and very naturally has contacts with just about everyone who is ever anybody in the business. Starting with shots of Woodrow Wilson in his Pierce-Arrow which he considered a plaything of the rich the pictorial accompaniment races on to the famous Thomas Flyer which went around the world at a time when most of us couldn't get to the next town by gasoline, and winds up with a 30-page chronology of the American automobile.

Save That Windshield

From the letters I received apparently too many people still make the mistake of running the wipers over dirty windshields. Those scratches which are made on the glass seldom can be removed, although occasionally someone with patience will have a little luck with jeweler's rouge. Far simpler is making sure that the glass is cleaned before switching on the wipers. Even in testing them it is important to observe this rule. Watch a good mechanic when he tests the wipers. He not only wipes off the glass but throws some water on it, too.

If you feel that the brakes merely need a little tightening up, and if the mechanic starts taking off the front wheels, don't jump to the conclusion that he is making work for himself. He knows that the reduced braking efficiency may be a strong hint that there may be some trouble with the lining itself or that the drums need servicing. He could make a similar inspection of the rear brakes but the front wheels are easier to remove. And in doing this part of the job he will inspect, clean and repack the front wheel bearings which usually need attention any time.

The Motor Primer

You may not know it but the pressure cap on the radiator filler pipe of your car probably has a built-in vacuum valve. The purpose of this is to prevent the system from developing a vacuum which would have the effect of lowering the water's boiling point, thus defeating the purpose of the pressure cap which it is to increase pressure so that the boiling point of the coolant is higher than 212 degrees above zero Fahrenheit.

In The Motor Mail

Q. Oil recently leaked into the right rear brake drum of my car. Do you think this was caused by overlubricating the rear wheel bearings? H. L. M.

A. On your car these rear wheel bearings are of the oil-less type. The oil in the brake drums came from the differential and was due to over-filling the case or a defective grease retainer, or both.

Q. To settle an argument, does the battery in a car store electricity? Wm. L. G.

A. The battery stores chemical energy. This becomes electrical energy when you complete a circuit in which the battery is a part.

Q. Should the engine ever be run during a valve tappet adjustment? J. J. F.

A. This usually is necessary because if the work is done carefully, and thus slowly, the engine is likely to cool off. To normalize expansion of its various parts, including the valve stems, run the engine at least once during the job. Make sure the car is out doors or has hoses to carry off the exhaust fumes.

Q. Why doesn't the rear axle break when one of the rear wheels hits an obstruction in the road is forced to slow down temporarily? I should think that even if the axle didn't break the retarded tire and wheel would slide. F. D. L.

A. Apparently you are forgetting the differential which serves to throw the power to the opposite wheel when one of the rear wheels is slowed down or stopped. Differential action isn't confined to making turns.

Q. How fast should an engine idle? I mean, by readings on the ammeter. I notice that on my car the ammeter pointer is always a little on the charge side when the engine is idling. L. N. N.

A. That's too fast idle for a warm-up engine. During the warm-up some carburetors are designed to provide fast idling which shows on the ammeter as a moderate charge. Normally, however, idling should show a discharge on the ammeter. Too fast idling often is due to stickage of the accelerator pedal or weakness of the throttle pullback spring.

Q. Is it necessary to push the clutch pedal to the floor when cranking an engine? R. V. C.

A. Not necessarily, but usually advisable. With the clutch disengaged the starting motor and battery are spared the extra work of turning over the transmission gears which may be running in congealed and too heavy oil.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern St., West Hartford 7, Conn., and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

MARTIN WILL HEAD PUBLIC WORKS GROUP

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Edward Martin and Rep. Samuel K. McConnell Jr., Pennsylvania Republicans, are in line for committee chairmanships in the new Republican-controlled Congress.

Martin, re-elected to a second term on Tuesday, will be the top Republican in seniority on the Senate Public Works Committee.

McConnell, re-elected to a sixth term from the 13th (Montgomery County) District, has been the No. 1 Republican in seniority on the House Education and Labor Committee for four years. Committee chairmanships normally go to the top seniority members of the political party in control.

Martin now ranks second in Republican seniority on the Public Works Committee. He is headed by Sen. Cain (R-Wash.). But Cain was defeated in his re-election bid, and so Martin will move up.

On 3 Other Committees
Martin also is a member of the Senate Finance, Republican Policy, and Republican Patronage Committee.

No other House or Senate Pennsylvanians have sufficient seniority on their committees to put them in line for chairmanships. There are, however, a number who hold and will hold high committee rank:

Rep. Kelley is second in Democratic seniority on House Education and Labor; Rep. Graham is second ranking Republican and Rep. Walter second ranking Democrat on House Judiciary. Walter, in addition, will become top Democrat on House un-American Activities.

Duff Gains Power

The increased seniority which Sen. Duff (R-Pa.) will have in the new Congress will enable him to switch committees if he wishes. He now is on the Senate District of Columbia, Post Office and Civil Service, and Small Business Committees. Duff has not indicated a preference for any new committee. But he is a lawyer, which would qualify him for judiciary, and he is an ardent conservationist, which might cause him to ask for interior and insular affairs.

Duff has been mentioned frequently as a possible member of President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower's Cabinet. But Duff has said he is not seeking a Cabinet post.

Friendly Eisenhower Worried His Guard

CHICAGO (P)—The Chicago policeman who served as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's personal bodyguard for the last three months, says the President-elect some times was "too friendly" for his own safety.

Police Det. Louis E. Sweet, who returned home Thursday, traveled 1,000 miles on the campaign with the Republican presidential nominee.

"Everybody loved him," Sweet told reporters. "It was a hard job keeping friendly people from trampling him. I had help from policemen in each city we visited, but when crowds began to overwhelm us, Gen. Eisenhower would never allow us to push them back. He wanted to shake hands with everybody."

REDS MAY HAVE U. S. SERGEANT

HEIDELBERG, Germany (P)—U. S. Army headquarters said tonight that an American sergeant absent from his unit since Wednesday may be a prisoner in the Soviet zone.

An Army announcement said the sergeant, a member of the 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment, was riding a jeep on an authorized mission near the Hessian town of Fladungen when he disappeared.

West German border police said the soldier, unofficially identified as M. Sgt. Allan A. Legoy (home town unavailable) was seen driving across the border by two farmers and a forest worker. The German witnesses said that two Communist People's Police stopped and climbed into the jeep after it had gone 300 yards inside Soviet zone territory. The three were observed heading for the East -ne town of Melpers, one mile from the border. Legoy is said to be a Korean veteran now serving his second tour of duty in Germany.

Army authorities said the border in the Fladungen area is of a "twisting nature and it would have been relatively easy to take a wrong lane and end up beyond the limits of the American zone."

Kenan Stadium, the University of North Carolina's home football stadium, seats 43,900 people.

IKE CONFERRING ON SELECTION OF KEY FIGURES

By RELMAN MORIN
AUGUSTA, Ga. (P)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower went ahead today with arrangements to name his representatives for a series of briefing conferences, which may begin early next week at the Pentagon and the State Department.

The names of the men who will act as liaison officers for him have not been announced.

He has been in communication by telephone with his advisers, however, and members of his staff here indicated they believe the talks in Washington can start Monday or Tuesday. In addition to discussions in the Departments of State and Defense, Eisenhower is sending a representative to meet with the director of the budget in connection with the 1953-54 budget.

"Gets 'Top Secret' Data"

Eisenhower appears to be under some pressure from President Truman to act quickly.

Truman first reminded the general that the next budget is being prepared and said the figures are ready for examination.

Next, he sent an Air Force colonel to Augusta, where Eisenhower is on holiday, with a message designated "top secret," which was delivered to the President-elect Thursday night. Finally, he messaged Eisenhower to send representatives to the Pentagon and State Departments "at the earliest possible moment."

To Confer Nov. 17

Eisenhower himself will go to the White House for a conference Nov. 17, Truman said.

By that time, he will have been put in possession of information from the other three departments. The President's messages indicated an early beginning is urgent.

All three of the government branches so far mentioned deal more or less directly with foreign affairs. The message from Truman which was delivered personally by Col. Albert L. Cox contained several paragraphs relating to "foreign matters" which have not been published, according to Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty.

The general replied immediately to both communications, Hagerty said.

SOUTHERNER TO BE ON CABINET

WASHINGTON (P)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower is expected to name a Southerner—and possibly a Democrat—to his Cabinet in recognition of the unprecedented vote he rolled up in Dixie.

While the general hardly has had time since his landslide victory in last Tuesday's election to make progress toward picking any Cabinet member, friends here said they believe he will make it clear by such an appointment that he intends to deal the South in on his administration.

Eisenhower's three top supporters in the South were Governors James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, Robert Kennon of Louisiana and Allan Shivers of Texas. None of them may want a Cabinet post, but all might be consulted about the selection of a Dixie colleague.

A Texas woman, Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, co-publisher of the Houston Post, already has been mentioned as a possibility if a woman is chosen.

GRENADIE KILLS OFFICER AT DIX

PT. DIX, N. J. (P)—An infantry platoon moving through the darkness to fight a brush fire stumbled into a grenade area on the Ft. Dix firing range last night, and a 30-year-old lieutenant was killed as grenades exploded on contact.

Three men of the 45-man platoon were injured despite the efforts of the lieutenant, Leo J. Rogers, a range officer, who ran into the area to get the group out.

Post public information officer Capt. Harry Lapham said the men apparently walked into the grenade area in the darkness on their way to fight the brush fire and one man apparently kicked an unexploded grenade, setting it off.

Rogers, who was standing in an adjacent area, Lapham said, shouted to the men to stand still and he would get them out. Apparently they continued to move around, and another grenade exploded.

Rogers is believed to have kicked a third grenade, which exploded and killed him.

The Bucks County farm has been put under strict quarantine to prevent the spread of the disease to other swine, although the disease does not affect humans.

The York County farm also is still under quarantine.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

AMERICANS ALL

ELECTION DAY OVER, WE CAN, HAVING DISCHARGED A PRIMARY DUTY AS CITIZENS, SETTLE DOWN TO THE DAY-TO-DAY PRACTICE OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

ON THOSE CHARGED WITH CARRYING FORWARD OUR NATIONAL GOVERNMENT RESTS THE RESPONSIBILITY OF SERVING THE INTERESTS OF ALL THE PEOPLE—AND A RESPONSIBLE OPPOSITION CAN HELP SHAPE THAT COURSE.

ON EACH OF US TOO—AS CITIZENS—RESTS AN EQUAL RESPONSIBILITY FOR TAKING AN ACTIVE, INFORMED INTEREST IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS. SO WE CAN BEST DEMONSTRATE BEFORE THE WORLD THE VITALITY, STRENGTH AND HIGH PURPOSE OF OUR DEMOCRACY.

It is last heard from over Summit, Alaska, approximately midway between Fairbanks and Anchorage at 2:38 a. m.

was set up by special law, with broad powers to investigate virtually any phase of governmental operation.

In four years under Hoey it has probed charges of influence peddling by government officials and their friends in many high places, and made the term "5 per center" a synonym for shady dealer in special privilege.
